Accesso appoints travel industry veteran, John Guilfoy as its chief operating officer

Electronic ticketing company acceso Technology Group PLC (LON:ACSO) has appointed travel, technology and financial services veteran John Guilfoy as its chief operating officer.

Guilfoy will be responsible for the day-to-day operational management of the company, driving sales and leading the development of acceso's new scalable and unified product portfolio.

He will be based in Lake Mary, Florida, and will report directly to acceso's chief executive officer, Paul Noland.

READ acceso jumps as it sees strong start to 2019

He brings more than 23 years of experience in the travel, technology and financial services sectors leading a diverse set of teams across sales, marketing, product, operations and partnerships.

From 2011 until he joined acceso, he served in various senior executive roles at TravelClick, a high-growth eCommerce software-as-a-solution provider to hotels, which was acquired by Amadeus for US$1.5bn.

"John's vast experience and expertise in operations, combined with technology expertise, made him the outstanding candidate for the role. John's experience and his strength in managing a wide range of teams make him the right choice to help us drive both business and customer success," said Noland.
