Scancell chief hints at future Nasdaq listing

Richard Goodfellow, chief executive of Scancell (LON:SCLP), says the immunology specialist could explore the option of a NASDAQ listing once it has built up its North American profile.

The CEO was speaking to Proactive following the announcement of two new appointments - Dr John Chiplin, who will join the board as a non-executive director, and Dr Peter Brown, who is to be an advisor to the drug developer.

The former brings with him a wealth of industry experience, having been instrumental in the NASDAQ listing of Australia-quoted Benitec Biopharma.

Scancell's first cancer vaccine, SCIB1, is being developed for the treatment of melanoma and is in Phase I/II clinical trials.

Company Synopsis:

Cancer remains one of the world's most significant diseases. A key challenge in the fight against cancer is that many tumours continue to grow by successfully evading the body's own natural defence mechanism - the immune system. Scancell's mission is to overcome this breach in our defences by developing products that stimulate the immune system to treat or prevent cancer.
