

Klondike wants to bring modern exploration methods to the famous gold fields in the Yukon, the site of the historical 19th century gold rush.

In May, the company kicked off a US$2 million exploration program to focus on higher grade targets rather than the low-grade widespread material it had been exploring previously.

The bulk of the work, a 60-hole program, will focus on the Gay Gulch and Nugget zones to confirm high-grades, which were identified as part of last year's drilling season.
